REFUND POLICY:

A student who has preregistered for, or is attending classes, but decides not to attend Loras College must inform the Retention Coordinator in writing of the change in plans. Students are liable for ALL charges until official notice of withdrawal is received.

If a student leaves the College for any reason, the student account becomes due immediately. If a student has an outstanding balance on the student account, the account is coded as delinquent. Accounts in delinquent status are subject to a 1% (12% annual) delinquency charge on the outstanding balance each month until the account is paid in full. According to the federal refund policy, the student's official withdrawal date determines the formula used to calculate the percentage of earned aid/charges. Official withdrawal dates can be affected by the students' engaged attendance in courses as reported by faculty.

Institutional charges are adjusted through the 4th week of classes. Withdrawals after the 4th week of class do not receive a refund. Federal financial aid is adjusted until the student has passed the 60% point in the semester. After this date, no adjustment will be made for students who withdrew from all classes unless faculty in all a student's courses report a last date of engaged attendance that is prior to the 60% point in the semester.

Dropping a class: After the 20th day of class, financial aid will not be adjusted when a student drops a class but continues to be enrolled. Classes dropped prior to this date will result in an adjustment on the same percentage basis as is used for students who withdraw from all classes.

Housing and Meal Plan Adjustments: Students who move in but withdraw from school on or before the first day of class will be charged 5% of the cost of their housing and meal plan. Students who are still enrolled but are allowed to move off campus or drop a meal plan will have charges adjusted on the same percentage basis as is used for students withdrawing from school. If a student terminates a housing contract after taking residence, the student is responsible for buying out the remainder of the contract at 50% of remaining costs. This does not apply to first year students. Students leasing houses or apartments will be bound by the terms of their lease. Students are strongly encouraged to view Loras College's full refund policy online at <https://loras.edu/refund-policy/> as well as meet with a Financial Planning Office staff member prior to withdrawing from a class or from the institution to learn of any possible financial ramifications.

FINANCIAL AID:

The Office of Financial Planning processes student loans and provides information about federal direct loan eligibility. Students who borrow a Federal Direct Subsidized or Unsubsidized loan are borrowing directly from the federal government. Federal Direct Loans require that a student first complete the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) and provide any verification of eligibility requirements to Financial Planning if requested.

Federal loans do not require an additional application. The remaining two requirements for first time borrowers of federal direct loans are to complete Entrance Counseling, and a Master Promissory Note (MPN) at www.studentaid.gov. New borrowers must complete both requirements before the loan proceeds are disbursed to the student account. Half of the net total loan amount will be applied to each semester in which the student is enrolled at least half time. Please be aware that the net amount of the Direct Loan will be slightly lower than the total amount awarded to the student due to the origination fee charged to the borrower by the Department of Education's loan processor at the time of disbursement. We are required to wait until 10 days prior to the start of the term before disbursing federal funds to students, so the anticipated disbursement amount for each semester will appear as pending aid on the semester's first two billing statements. If the loan has not been credited to the student account by mid-semester, contact the Office of Financial Planning or use the Federal Student Aid website, to find out the cause of the delay.
